LAPACK (Linear Algebra Package) is a standard software library for numerical linear algebra. It provides routines for solving systems of linear equations and linear least squares, eigenvalue problems, and singular value decomposition. It also includes routines to implement the associated matrix factorizations such as LU, QR, Cholesky and Schur decomposition.

In probability theory and statistics, a covariance matrix, also known as auto-covariance matrix, dispersion matrix, variance matrix, or variance-covariance matrix, is a matrix whose element in the i, j position is the covariance between the i -th and j -th elements of a random vector. A random vector is a random variable with multiple dimensions. Each element of the vector is a scalar random ...

A finite difference method with non-equidistant space steps, based upon the Crank-Nicolson technique is presented. Its prime feature is the automatic positioning of axial grid points at required positions, thus reducing considerably the total number of grid points and hence the amount of computer time.

A modified Crank-Nicolson technique with non-equidistant
